

SOP — The Team Superhero Comic

In groups of 3–4: write, design & publish a superhero comic with real world-building — where every hero's power is a real leadership superpower from your team. Eight steps across the week.

The deliverable: a published Canva comic (6–10 pages) that follows the 12-step Hero's Journey, stars heroes powered by your team's real strengths, and defeats a real-world stereotype in its climax. Presented at Friday's showcase.

1 Form your team & pick roles

MON • LAB 1

1. Groups of 3–4. Everyone draws AND writes — roles just mean you lead that part.
2. Pick one lead each: Story Lead (script & dialogue) · Art Director (style & characters) · Canva Lead (layout & assembly) · Lore Keeper (world rules & continuity — in a team of 3, Story Lead takes this).
3. Fill in the Team Roster sheet — team name included!

 Sheet 1 • Team Roster

These are Friday's career cards in miniature: Creative Director, Technical Artist, Project Manager. Say that out loud — it lands.

2 Turn real superpowers into heroes

MON • LAB 1

1. From this morning's workshop: each girl names her real-life superpower (empathy, organization, humor, problem-solving, art...).
2. Each girl builds her hero on a Character Sheet: hero name, the real strength → comic power, costume/look, a weakness (heroes need one!), and a catchphrase.
3. Optional: use Google Gemini to brainstorm names and lore — the ideas stay yours.

 Sheet 2 • Character Sheet (one per girl)

The rule that makes it work: the comic power must be the real strength in disguise. Empathy → feels what others feel from miles away.
Organization → can freeze chaos into order.

3 Build the world

MON • LAB 1

1. As a team, fill the World-Building sheet: world name, the setting (city? reef? space school?), and 3 rules of the world (what's possible here? what's forbidden?).
2. Invent the villain — and here's the twist: the villain embodies a real-world stereotype your team wants to smash ("girls can't code," "leaders must be loud"...).
3. Watch: What is the Hero's Journey?

 Sheet 3 • World-Building

4 Map the journey — steps 1-4

MON • LAB 1

Use the Hero's Journey Planner — one sentence per step is enough today. The 12 steps, split across the week:

MONDAY • 1-4

1. Ordinary World — home, normal life
2. Call to Adventure — something changes
3. Refusal — doubt & fear
4. Meeting the Mentor — a guide appears

TUESDAY • 4-8

5. Crossing the Threshold — no turning back
6. Tests, Allies & Enemies
7. Approach the Inmost Cave — the big one nears
8. The Ordeal — the hardest fight begins

WEDNESDAY • 8-12

9. Reward — what she gains
10. The Road Back
11. Resurrection — the final test, biggest change
12. Return with the Elixir — home, changed, sharing the gift

 Sheet 4 • Hero's Journey Planner

5 Write the middle — powers into dialogue

TUE • LAB 2

1. Advance through stages 4–8: cross the threshold, meet allies, face the first big tests.
2. The assignment: write each girl's real leadership superpower directly into her hero's choices and dialogue — not just the powers, the decisions.
3. Show, don't tell: instead of "she was brave," draw her stepping forward when everyone backs away.

Checkpoint question for each team: "point to one panel where a real superpower made the choice."

6 Climax & resolution — defeat the stereotype

WED · LAB 3

1. The Supreme Ordeal: the heroes face the villain — and win only by combining their different superpowers.
2. Defeat the stereotype: the villain's lie gets disproven on the page, by characters proud of who they are.
3. Return with the Elixir: the heroes come home changed — show how they use what they learned to lift their community.
4. Script complete = all 12 planner boxes filled with real sentences.

7 Build it in Canva

MON→THU · ONGOING

1. Canva Lead: open Canva → Templates ▶ 0:10 and search "comic book template" ▶ 0:20 .
2. Pick a free template whose panel layout matches your pages ▶ 0:28 , open it ▶ 0:43 .
3. Fill panels with the team's art + Canva elements ▶ 1:24 — use the Page Planner sheet to sketch each page on paper FIRST, then rebuild it in Canva (way faster than designing live).
4. Speech bubbles: Elements → search "speech bubble." Keep fonts to two max for the whole comic.
5. Share the design with all teammates + your facilitator (Share → invite by email) so everyone can work on it.

 Sheet 5 · Page Planner (one per page)

Watch out

- Free vs. paid: some templates/elements cost money — check for the crown icon before using.
- Only use approved art — your drawings, Canva's free elements, or licensed assets.
- Consistency: same style, same fonts, same colours across every page.

1. Thursday polish: read the whole comic out loud as a team — fix confusing panels, typos, missing steps. Check all 12 journey points are visible in the pages.
2. Publish: Canva → Share → Download as PDF (and grab a public view link).
3. The pitch deck: add your comic pages to the team presentation slides — hero lore, the stereotype you defeated, and which real superpowers powered the story.
4. Friday showcase: one device at your station shows the comic. Every teammate speaks — introduce YOUR hero and the real strength behind her.

Rehearse Thursday evening in the dress-rehearsal rotation — 60 seconds per girl is plenty.

Companion pieces: the Worksheet Pack (Sheets 1–5, printable) and the Comic Slides deck. Canva mechanics follow the camp's Loom video (Recipe #1 in the SOP Book). Journey mapping matches the playbook: steps 1–4 Mon · 4–8 Tue · 8–12 Wed.